SIDELIGHTS from SPRINGFIELD

By Sen. PAUL SIMON

PATRONAGE: THE MOST IMPORTANT ISSUE IN THE STATE

When I am asked in a letter or after a talk: "What is the most important issue the state faces?" people are usually surprised when I respond: "Patronage."

Illinois is one of the worst states in the nation in the percentage of patronage employees.

In fairness I should tell you that my position is a minority position in the legislative and among state political leaders. The leadership of both political parties disagree with me on this issue.

Party leaders of both parties like patronage.

What's wrong with it? Many things. Even though I recognize that occasionally a strong civil service system can have some inefficiencies, the evils of a patronage system are many times greater. One cannot only touch on the evils, but here are some:

1. Cost. Whenever you put people on the job because they produce votes, rather than on merit, there is an expense. Add to this the expense of job turnovers every four or eight years.

2. Patronage brings human misery. Take a man called Smith. Smith was 62 years old when the Democrats came in. He was working on the highways, doing a good job; everyone praised his work. But he was a Republican and when the Democrats came in he went out. His chance of getting work was slim. He had no unemployment protection and no social security. His wife has had a series of operations. He is really "down and out." He is a Republican, and I am a Democrat, but I cannot rejoice in this man's situation, nor in the system that produced it. Both political parties do this.

3. It invites corruption. I've been offered large sums of money for jobs, and though I have never taken a penny from anyone for help in getting a job, I am sure there are those who do. In addition, political appointees are expected to "kick in" a percentage of their salary to a campaign fund. There is no public disclosure of what happens to that money. In most instances it is probably used for campaign purposes. In many instances it is not.

4. Worst of all, it makes politics in Illinois job-oriented rather than issue-oriented. The big issue at a political rally in Illinois is not mental health, the revenue problem, or the threat of communism—but who gets the jobs! Because jobs are more important than issues, both major parties reverse themselves with ease on basic issues. As long as issues are secondary and morality is secondary, Illinois government is going to leave a lot to be desired.

Doesn't civil service ruin the two-party system?

Not at all. As a matter of fact patronage corrodes it. We have seen evidence of that in Springfield. The 46 other states that have a smaller percentage of patronage employees have as strong—if not a stronger—two party system than we do, because it is built on issues and not jobs.

Of the 60,000 state jobs which Illinois has, roughly 20,000 are patronage jobs. The figure is hard to pin down and it may be slightly less than that. But compared to other states it is a tremendous figure.

Changing this structure will not be easy. This is not a dramatic issue that gets people excited.

But it is as important to building better government in Illinois as any issue we face. A basic change will not come in this session. It will not come until the public starts to realize how important it is and starts pressuring those in public office.

Springfield Background

By Robert Coulson
State Senator

METHODS OF POLITICAL SPENDING

How does a legislator approach the problem of the state's budget? There are only three ways, and most of us reject one and choose between the other two.

The easiest way is to vote to spend money for all purposes, vote against all tax increases, and leave it up to the governor to veto enough spending bills to balance the books.

The hardest and most foolish way is to vote to increase taxes, vote against all increased spending, and then leave it up to the governor to produce a surplus as large as possible. I don't know of any legislator who follows this practice.

The only other approach, and the one used by politicians who want to be responsible statesmen, is to vote for enough increased taxes to balance the increased costs required by the appropriations.

Most of us try to follow this last practice, but there are difficulties. Should we each try to vote for enough taxes to pay for our own favored spending ideas, or should we vote taxes to pay for spending ideas which we opposed? Should we each try to produce a balanced budget or should we let the majority decide what should be spent and then agree to tax measures which will pay for it?

This is where we get into party politics. The legislators who belong to the Governor's party will generally help him balance the budget, and the opposition party will generally vote only enough money to pay for the spending programs which they favored. This, of course, is what put Illinois in the trouble we now face. The sales tax broadening bills and the tightened collection procedures should have been adopted six or eight years ago.

A further difficulty which the Illinois citizen must understand in order to get the complete picture of our state's finances derives from an honest difference in emphasis on budgeting.

Some people believe that a government should calculate its total spending needs, and then tax whatever is needed to produce that number of dollars. Others believe that the state should calculate the number of dollars available, and then divide that as far as possible to meet needs.

I believe in the latter approach. Specifically, I believe that our legislature should spend the first-half of the session on revenue bills, and the last half on appropriation bills. We should first decide how large the pie is, and then decide how to divide the pie into shares.

I tried to promote this idea in the last session, by resolutions directing that appropriation bills should be held to the last of the session and revenue bills considered only in the first half of the session. The resolution got nowhere, and I know that I am outnumbered by those who prefer the opposite approach.

Most legislators, I am convinced, prefer to spend money in the early part of the session, and worry about revenue increases and taxes in the latter half. This is part of the trend of the times, and I cannot overcome it by making motions in Springfield. It can be changed only if the people care enough about it to insist.

In the national government this same practice is followed, but the danger is not so great. The national government can have an unbalanced budget. It can go into debt. But Illinois is forbidden to go into more than $250,000 of debt without a state referendum. We must balance our books each two years. Our Constitution requires it. If we can spend the money we must raise the taxes.

That is why I believe that we must learn to decide on our revenue changes before we vote appropriations. It is a hard point to make but I intend to be stubborn about it.

Losers—"It's Friendship, Friendship."

Incidentally, if we were one of those defeated candidates, we'd attend every possible board meeting from now until next election, and try to get a friend to go with us. Even if we never aspired to be "informed candidates" again, we'd be "informed voters."

Next big events on the agenda will be spring graduations and weddings. We finally figured out why so many brides get married in June... so the rest of us will have some place to wear those wild Easter hats we bought.

THE LATEST REPORT: Bet the men of the fire department blessed those showers the last few days. It's getting so that if we don't hear the siren every hour we think something's wrong. By the way, Irv Walsh must apply for more permits to start trash fires than anyone else in town. . . . We hear Clarence Shultis and John Horan were among those who answered a fire call last week, when the rest of the department was busy on another call. . . . Don Gaston, after twenty-five years as a printer, is working up to being a farmer. Promotions come slow in this business. . . . Earl and Barbara Beese, who have taken over the marina that was formerly known as Hawkins Landing, and before that as Spring Lake Channel Lodge, out near George Diamond's, on Spring Lake, have made a jazzy sign proclaiming their emporium as B-Z-Bee Boat-In. Food for the hungry fishermen, and a stall for his boat. . . . Phil Vermeyn got so disgusted with his bowling last Monday night that he said "To heck with it all" and tossed the ball down there any old way. Threw seven straight strikes, before he started trying again. . . . Kaye Keulman and Louise Fernandez must have been real disgusted when they bowled in the Lake County Doubles Tournament - they are now Lake County Champs. . . . Speaking of champs, Cornelius Lufots, painter and decorator, is also a champion chess-player.

FORGET YOU NOT: The Cub Scouts rummage, bake and Green Thumb sale on April 26 and 27. . . . the Methodist Church Rummage and Bake Sale on May 16 and 17. . . . Little League registration at the Scout house, April 27 and 28.

THE LAST DROP: Did you watch Candid Camera last Sunday night? And here we always thought men stuck together!

DID YOU HEAR: He who laughs last is usually the guy the joke was on. Please, no more tacks on the chair.

I'll be seeing you, along the way.

You'll enjoy walking through beautiful Elgin Park, watching the Lilac Festival Parade May 11, and inexpensive church dinner. The lilac has been adopted as Lombard's official flower and color. They even have purple taxicabs, lilac donuts and lilac-hue village squad cars and all village equipment, even the sewer rodder.

Lombard, the Lilac Village, is well known through the Midwest. It all started in 1867 when Col. William R. Plum, a successful corporation lawyer decided to make Lombard his home. He was not only a man of means but an avid gardener, and in the course of trips to Europe with his wife, Helen, he met the famous French horticulturalist Victor Lemonee, from whom he obtained of the then new French hybrid lilacs. This was the beginning of Lombard's famous "Lilac Park." There is now a collection of over 1200 lilac shrubs in 275 different varieties.

During the lilac season the streets are decorated, there is a lilac queen contest, a coronation, a Lilac Pageant, a Lombard Lilac Festival Parade, May 11, and of course visits to view the acres of delicate-hued lilacs. It is a color photographer's paradise.

As an added attraction, the shrub beds are faced with borders of gay colored tulips—reds, oranges, purples, yellows, whites, pinks and magentas. Many garden lovers come to view the lilacs by moonlight as the garden is completely illuminated.

During the Festival time, the Lilac Queen and the four princesses stroll about the park, gladly posing for pictures against a background of lilacs.

Many people make this an annual Mother's Day treat (as Mother's Day usually falls in the middle of the lilac festival).

Signs direct visitors to the park. Garden club and senior citizen tours are encouraged. The park office may be reached by calling Mayfair 7-1281 or the Lombard Chamber of Commerce, Mayfair 7-5040.

On May 11 the Festival Parade will take place at 2 p.m. There are about 100 units participating including some 24 floats and a dozen bands, as well as marching units from the surrounding area including Navy Drill team, and Air Defense Drill Team Drum and Bugle Corps.

Matthias-Schmidt Wedding At Peace Church In Wilmot

By Mrs. Herman Frank

Miss Louise Matthias, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Matthias, of Silver Lake, Wis., and Mr. Robert Schmidt, son of the late Alfred Schmidt of Salem, were united in marriage April 6, at Peace Lutheran Church, Wilmot, by the Rev. George Enderle.

The bride's traditional wedding gown was styled with a bouffant skirt of white silk tulle over satin with bands of Chantilly lace. The long sleeved lace bodice was designed with Sabrina neckline trimmed in crystal beads. She wore a tiered waist-length veil appliqued with small lace motifs, stitched to a low crown of pearls and crystals, and carried a cascade bouquet of mums and eucalyptus.

Mrs. Jacqueline Cleveland of Milwaukee was matron of honor and Misses Arlene Schmidt, Carol and Nancy Matthias, sisters of the bride, were bridesmaids. They wore sheaths of pale aqua lace with matching bell skirts. Veiled headpieces. They carried colonial bouquets of pink roses, white carnations and baby hyacinths. Miss Meth Klacan of Monte Vista, Colo., was flower girl in aqua sashed white nylon. She carried a basket of snapdragons.

Dr. George Klacan, Monte Vista, Colo., was best man. Groomsman were Joel Hertz, Mount Vernon, Iowa; Edmund Bohl, Harrisonville, Mo.; and James Huntton, Salem; Kenneth Matthias, Chicago, and Roger Runkel, Burlington, seated the guests. John Kirschner was ring bearer.

A reception was held at Salem Grade School for 400 guests.

The couple are honeymooning through the south. The bridegroom, a 1960 IFYE delegate to Australia, is a graduate of Central H.S. and the University of Wisconsin. He is vice-president and sales manager of the Schmidt Implement Co., Salem. The bride is employed as secretary at Wilmot High School. She attended Racine-Kenosha County Teachers College following graduation from Wilmot High School.

Antioch American Legion Auxiliary

Jahneke, and the winners are—1st, Edith Wolpert; 2nd, Verna Turvoara, and 3rd, Judi Turner.

Mrs. Warren Edwards, president, Mrs. William Chase, Mrs. Joseph Horton, and Mrs. Alex Hoffman attended the Tenth District Legion Auxiliary in Highland Park Legion Home. The Department (state) President, Mrs. Thomas McManus, was there and gave an excellent informative speech on all the many phases of American Legion Auxiliary work.

Mrs. Frank Kennedy, Sr., Pan-American chairman, will give a talk on the Dominican Republic, which is the Latin American country that the entire national Legion Auxiliary studies this year. Mrs. Frank Kennedy, Jr., Mrs. Anna Cosgrove, and Mrs. Anton Johnson will also be hostesses at this meeting on April 26 at the Antioch Legion Home.

Central High School Board Meets April 9

Bids for four new school buses were submitted by five area dealers when the Board of Education of Central High School at Salem met on April 9. The low bid was submitted by the International Harvester of Burlington.

In other business the board decided to investigate the matter of an auxiliary heating unit for the boiler system. It was decided that the Guidance Dept. and Health Dept. will exchange quarters at the end of the year.

Pretty Sneaky!

Everybody, of course, is continually trying to use the news columns of a newspaper for free advertising. In fact, if we could get as many paid ads as the free ones that masquerade as news, (and often are newsworthy, of course), this paper would be so big you could hardly carry it home. The following release, though, comes under the head of "painless advertising," we think. Whether or not you attend, we're sure you'll enjoy reading the following bit of publicity.

Recipe for an April Day

Start by turning your car to Newport School, on April 20th at 1:30 p.m. Prepare for fun and enjoyment:

Mix together games and toys movies and such salable items as towels . . . aprons Barbie doll clothes cakes . . . pies and other goodies Add:

A chance to throw a pie at the teachers. Mix these all together and top it off with a ham dinner at 5 p.m.

This recipe (a sure success) has been concocted by Helen Tofts and Lillian Ames, chairmen of the dinner; Alma Edmonds and Dolores Irish, chairmen, of the kitchen; June Cermak, chairman of the bazaar; Mrs. Avery Leable and Mrs. Art Leable, ticket chairmen, and Mary Pollitt, PTA President.

DISCOURAGED?

"Discouraged? Remember: When Abraham Lincoln was a young man he ran for the Legislature in Illinois and was badly swamped.

"He next entered business, failed and spent 17 years of his life paying up the debt of a worthless partner.

"He was in love with a beautiful young woman to whom he became engaged—and then she died.

"Later he married a woman who was a constant burden to him.

"Entering politics again, he was badly defeated for Congress.

"He failed to get an appointment to the U. S. Land Office.

"He was badly defeated for the U. S. Senate.

"In 1856 he became a candidate for the Vice Presidency and was again defeated.

"In 1858 he was defeated by Douglas.

One failure after another—bad failures, great setbacks. In the face of all this he eventually became one of the country's greatest men, if not the greatest. When you think of a series of setbacks like this, doesn't it make you feel small to become discouraged, just because you think that you're having a hard time in life?"

—St. Joseph Record.

ists, in some cases, due partly to the acute shortage of professional librarians. Sharon says, "but it is being gradually overcome by increased awareness on the part of educators and librarians of the importance of the library's public service functions."

"I like people, I want to help them, and I feel that the school years are an important phase to a person's life; that is why I want to become a public school librarian," she said.

Sharon is majoring in teacher training in social studies in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and taking a minor in library science. Eventually she plans to earn a master's degree in this field.

Miss Dittman transferred to Illinois last fall from De Pauw University, Greencastle, Ind., specifically to take advantage of the library science program. In addition to graduate work at the master's and doctor's levels, the U. of I. offers an undergraduate minor in the field which provides training for state certification as a school librarian.

Her interest in education comes naturally. Her father, Albert Dittman, has been principal of Antioch High School for the past 11 years and Mrs. Dittman teaches fifth grade at Antioch Consolidated Grade School. Mrs. Dittman's three sisters also were teachers.

Currently Miss Dittman is busy with plans for Campus Mothers Day weekend, held annually the weekend before the national observance. She is student publicity chairman for this weekend to be held May 3-5.

Students, working through the Illini Union, are responsible for a good share of planning events for their mothers' entertainment. Major productions are a queen contest, spring musical, student sings, fashion show, and theater and water show productions.

This year the annual public Honors Day convocation May 3 is being combined with formal dedication of the new Assembly Hall at ceremonies. Poet Carl Sandburg, a native Illinoisan, will speak.

Sharon lives at Arbor Suites, apartment-type residence at which girls cut college costs by doing all their own cooking and housekeeping. She is president of Walnut Hall, a dormitory for sorority transfer students, and a member of Alpha Gamma Delta social sorority.

Last summer she was employed by the Waukegan Public Library and plans to work there this summer. She works half-time in circulation and half-time in periodicals.

For hobbies she enjoys reading, sewing, and water sports.

BABY'S FEET
By Dr. Marvin D. Steinberg, Research Podiatrist, New York, N. Y.
At birth, there are no com-

BAN THE TRASH
"A product, regardless of its nature, depends upon its sale to remain in business. If choices were raised by matter of selection of better quality of entertainment, the bad would disappear simply because it would be unprofitable for its exploitation."

"The tone and cultural level of any community can be easily ascertained from viewing the types of magazine on display in the main stores of the community. Dealers merely supply what the consumer wants."

"Society, that is you and I, this has it within its power to control the decline in moral values. It is not too late to stop trying to follow the example of the person who obtained the material things of life by illegal and unscrupulous means. Too many scorn the honest person who returns large sums of money he may find without hope of gain."

"The incentive of trust, of honesty, of personal service and self reliance to choose between right and wrong are of more concern to civilization than any ban on atomic weapons."

"Nations may be well able to combat external threats, but powerless to halt the spread of inner moral decay without individual concern in the type of behavior values or ethical conduct they exhibit themselves."—Desplains Valley News.

"Monday Morning Quarterbacks are as plentiful as bleacher coaches and locker-room committee chairmen, and equally useless. Side-line analysts are full of pat solutions, for almost any situation that faces man. It is a human trait to have a great deal to say about the right or wrong way to tackling a problem. Perhaps man's verbosity gave rise to the phrase 'Talk is cheap'. There is pause for thought, when we face the fact that most of these bargain prescriptions put the responsibility for decisions and action on other fellows. A doctor signs his own name on the blank we take to the druggist; he does his own work."

"It is obvious to all of us as we read the faithful reporting of trained observers, that there is something radically wrong with our country's portrait before the rest of the world. There are inequities in our tax structure. There are murky corners in most of the state governments of the land. Most of our local communities could stand a serious housecleaning. These are simple facts, admitted by most thinking people."

"The solutions for most of these problems lie in the ordinary citizen. These same solutions call for work, not words; they call for individual courage to stand up and be counted in the public forum and at the ballot box. They most certainly do not call for more words in the barber shop that are denied on the main street. -Elburn Herald.

More Jobs, Less Taxes

Congressman Robert McCloy introduced legislation recently which would provide income tax credits for businesses which add new employees. The measure was suggested by R. Edwin Moore, Chairman of Bell and Gossett Company, manufacturers of pumps, compressors and electronic products. It provides that a reduction in the federal income tax rate will be accorded employers who increase the percentage of their employees, with a 100 per cent increase in the number of employees resulting in a 1 per cent reduction in the employer's tax rate. The employer's tax rate would be further reduced by adding employees, with a maximum 10 per cent reduction allowed when a 1000 per cent increase in new employees is achieved.

What Value Is Physical Fitness?

"What value is physical fitness? Is it essential in an age when machines do most of the work in our country?" President Kennedy seems to think that physical fitness of the people is of great importance, and he has a special group under the leadership of Bud Wilkinson, football coach at the University of Oklahoma, to promote physical fitness among Americans. President Eisenhower also had a physical fitness program.

"We have elevators where there used to be stairs. Where people used to walk, now they drive cars. In the early days of our country a trans-continental trip took months. Now a jet can transport us from coast to coast in a matter of hours. Machines are wonderful, they save time and in the long run money. In relation to physical fitness, though, these machines create a few problems. Machines do not require the use of muscles, and when muscles are not used they deteriorate. So, herein lies the problem. The experts say that to replace this lack of exercise in many of our jobs it is essential to our health that we exercise outside of our work. This would be fine except that most of us don't want to exhaust ourselves unless it is necessary in our daily lives.

"This lack of physical fitness is a weakness of our own environment. As life gets softer we get softer.

"What can be done? We don't know. But, something should be done and we hope that these various programs bring about a change. As Rome grew greater and offered a better life, her people got fat and docile, and gradually the Roman Empire disappeared.

"Machines depend on people, and the United States needs its people physically fit as well as mentally fit."—Mendota Reporter.

For safety's sake, motorists should remember the three basic rules for parking on hills, says the Chicago Motor Club. To park on a down-grade, crank the front wheels sharply toward the curb; on an up-grade, turn the front wheels sharply away from the curb; with no curb, always turn the front wheels toward the edge of the road.

WEDDING CUSTOMS... Fact and Fancy

WITH the season for weddings reaching its height, thousands of brides are making plans to choose sterling patterns, exchange rings, and cut wedding cakes. Ever wonder how some of these lovely and romantic traditions started?

The traditional gift of sterling silver flatware from the bride's parents had its origin in Grecian times, when the dowry was established. The gift of sterling from the bride's parents is one aspect of the dowry tradition that has endured, for it still has deep meaning as the symbol of the parents' desire to establish their daughter in a gracious way of living.

The wedding ring, the very symbol of marriage, was first used by the Egyptians, to whom the circle represented eternity. Then—as now—the ring symbolized the eternity of the union.

The high-tiered wedding cake as we know it was once a heap of rolls. In Anglo-Saxon times, each guest brought a sweet bun to the wedding. These were piled high, and if the bride and groom could kiss over the top, they were assured a lifetime of prosperity.

Bonus For Homemakers

A "housepower" bonus is in store for local homemakers who switch to electric cooking this spring according to Robert Wilton of Wilton's Electric Shop.

Wilton said that during March and April wiring is provided free for any electric range to be installed in a single-family dwelling served by the Commonwealth Edison-Public Service Company system.

Complete 240-volt service facilities to connect the new range are furnished by the utility, according to Wilton. The wiring includes a 100-ampere service entrance, if needed, along with the special appliance circuit.

Wilton's Shop features a complete line of Frigidaire 1963 flameless ranges. Many are offered at special prices and all are sold with guarantees of satisfaction.

With the advent of spring, longer daylight hours mean more time to play after school for the nation's youngsters. The Chicago Motor Club urges motorists to drive carefully especially around playgrounds and athletic fields during the spring and summer seasons. Youngsters go about their play with great single-mindedness and often pay little attention to where they are playing.

The Fall Of Nations

"History's greatest civilizations, the Roman Empire, Britain, France, Spain, all of them, have lasted but about 200 years, and they fell."

"In the 'Council Bulletin', published by the Blackhawk Area Council of Boy Scouts of America, the Nov. 9 issue contained this charge:

"Nations have progressed through this sequence:
From Bondage to Spiritual Faith

From Spiritual Faith to Great Courage

From Courage to Liberty

From Liberty to Abundance

From Abundance to Selfishness

From Selfishness to Complacency

From Complacency to Apathy

From Apathy to Dependency

From Dependency back into Bondage.

RURAL VIRTUES

"...The currently fashionable example of minority tyranny is, of course, rural domination of many state legislatures where a proper representation according to population would give control to the cities and suburbs.

"The rural sectors many congressmen represent may be vastly over-represented at both the national and state levels, but the view is that they do deserve a large voice and can serve as a proper check on the curious provincialism of the big cities....

"Sometimes the minorities attempt tactics that border on coercion. Yet there is just as much risk that majorities, enjoying the sanction which says they rule in a democracy, will overstep the bounds and try to fasten a 51 per cent view on 100 per cent of the people involved.

"Thoughtful men suggest that the wisest leaders seek programs and accept compromises which embrace far more than a bare majority. They believe that in this larger 'reasonable consensus' broad enough to include many minority elements, lies the real key to workable democracy. They make good sense." — Belleville News Democrat.

Housecleaning Suggestions

With the appearance of the season's first robin the homemaker's thoughts inevitably turn to spring cleaning.

To help the housewives who of necessity must limit physical activity because of heart disease the Lake County Heart Council has compiled energy-and-time-saving suggestions. But there's no reason a healthy woman can't utilize these ideas.

Organize your work, says the Heart Council, to make the most of your time and energy. But organize it according to your own pace and personal inclinations. Don't force yourself to follow the pattern set by Aunt Till or your mother-in-law — it may not suit you at all. And you'd just get frustrated, angry and more quickly fatigued.

Think out the best ways for you to do whatever has to be done. You can economize on steps, avoid running up and down stairs, or from front to back rooms. If you group your jobs according to location or type—whatever suits you best.

Have the right tools for the job. Long-handled brooms and dustpans can save a lot of back-bending, for example. When possible, have extra sets of cleaning materials (pails, soaps, cleaning rags and sponges)—so that one can be kept where it is to be used, upstairs or downstairs.

Alternatively, collect all your equipment in one trip to the utility closet and instead of lugging it from room to room, load everything onto a free-wheeling cart—your cleaning caddy.

Use all the resources at hand. For example, assign children chores within their capacity. Even 5- and 6-year-olds can be helpful. Some women take a two-timed approach to dusting and polishing—a dust mitt or rag in each hand. They feel they can cover twice the territory in half the time. You might see if this will work for you.

When you have to pick up or lift objects, bend your knees. Let your leg muscles do the work of lowering and lifting—not your back muscles.

If you like working to the sound of music, make it a suitable rhythm for your special pace.

Most important, perhaps, is the matter of rest and relaxation. Don't work till you're ready to drop. You should run the house—not vice versa. More frequent and shorter periods of rest are better than one longer rest break. Halt early enough to rest and freshen up before your husband comes home for dinner.

As one heart specialist said, "Most jobs are a cinch compared to housework." His studies showed that strenuous housework takes more energy per minute than digging coal. He wasn't suggesting that housework be avoided by healthy people—it's a good workout as long as you're in condition for it. But why use all your time and energy on housecleaning? Save some for enjoyable activities with your family.

The Lake County Heart Council has further suggestions in booklet form available free upon request. For your copy of "The Heart of the Home" write the Lake County Heart Council, 1813 Washington St., Waukegan.

ALL ABOUT BABIES

A Public Service of the National Baby Care Council

By Dr. Bernard Kushner, Pres., Vision Conservation Institute

The human eye seems to be one of Mother Nature's favorite and outstanding creations. It has more than 100,000,000 parts and is infinitely more complex than anything made by man.

Because the eye is so complex, its intricate parts become differentiated early in the unborn child. Three months before a baby is born he is blinking his eyelids and is moving his eyes much as he will when he begins to explore the world of light in a few weeks.

However, vision needs time for growth after birth. A child's eye must be developed for all the wonderful seeing tasks that two eyes working together with the brain can perform. At birth, the part of the eye on which clearest vision depends is not fully developed. Only time brings about development.

As if these practical functions were not enough, eyes must also be beautiful. Your baby is born with blue eyes. But, the color will change by the accumulation of pigment in a coating over the iris. If he is destined to be brown-eyed, for instance.

There can be endless fascination in watching a baby progress from one stage to another as he learns to see and get meaning out of the information that his eyes gather so avidly. At first, a baby checks everything with his mouth, as if he didn't trust his eyes. What an achievement it is when he develops hand-eye coordination, when his eyes guide his hand or foot.

You can watch your child build what optometrists call his space world. As you would expect, he is the center of it. At first, he has little awareness of anything beyond arm's length. Slowly the space expands. He learns what and where the objects are that his eyes see. This is a developmental process involving not only his eyes, but his whole being.

Eye doctors point out that baby first explores this expanse, foot and eye. Then in turn, will come a period of concentration on the left. Soon, this cycle is repeated and growth and development take place.

Optometrists find that for the first few months, one eye may be turned under the nose or "crossed" as it is commonly described. At this time, baby is using the other eye. There is nothing to be concerned about at this time.

TIRED BLOOD

"There is no such thing as tired blood. Even when you are limp with exhaustion, your blood is rushing zippily around tending to business.

"People who think they have 'tired blood' are really complaining of chronic loss of pep. There may be any number of reasons for that tired feeling, and there's nothing you can buy over the counter that will cure it.

"First, consider the possibility that you're not as young as you used to be. Who is? As you grow older you're bound to slow down a bit. You can't go in for an endless round of activities without feeling the effects in fatigue. You may need more rest.

"Are you getting enough sleep? If the alarm clock finds you almost unable to get up in the morning, you may need to go to bed a bit earlier.

"Boredom can give you a feeling of being tired. You can get just as worn out not having enough to do as you can overworking.

"On the other hand, constant tiredness can be a sign of something wrong. It's a symptom of many disorders, none of which you can diagnose yourself. If rest and several good nights sleep do not relieve persistent tiredness, you should see your doctor."—New Canton Press.

Why your dollars work harder in U.S. Savings Bonds

Sometimes getting a good return from your savings dollar means looking beyond the amount of interest you collect.

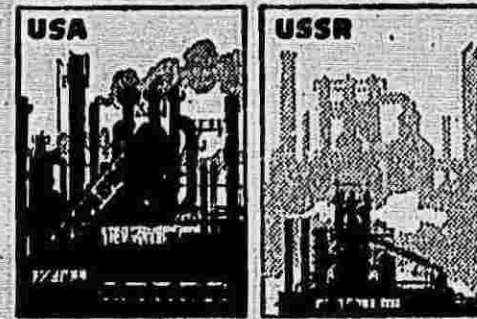

Take U.S. Savings Bonds, for example.

While this investment does pay a substantial rate of interest, it pays off in another way as well. The money you put into Bonds for your future is used by Uncle Sam to help keep America strong and free.

Without a strong, free America, that home you're saving for would offer little comfort. Travel would hold little fun. Without freedom, there'd be little future in saving at all.

While you're saving for the future, why not put your dollars where they'll help keep the future free—as well as grow 3 1/2% in 7 1/2 years? The place to put them: U.S. Savings Bonds, issued and guaranteed by the United States Government.

The communists threaten to surpass our economy, and prove that communism is better. One way we can keep them wrong is to stay financially strong—as individuals and as a nation.

The Antioch Sequoia dropped a double header Saturday to the Grayslake Rams, 7 to 0 and 10 to 5, on the winners' diamond. It marked the third straight defeat of the season for the Sequoia.

Ray Maar was the winning pitcher in the first game, giving up 4 hits as 16 Sequoia went down via the strikeout route. Jim Brownlee took the loss allowing 7 runs on 10 hits. Three of the Rams' 7 runs were unearned.

In the second game Jim Wojczynski gave up 12 hits as the Grayslake team scored in every inning. Sweeney went the first 3 1/3 innings before being replaced by Chet Goza who took the credit for the win.

Wojczynski hit a triple in the fifth inning of the second game for Antioch's only extra base hit. Errors again plagued the Sequoia squad as they accounted for 9 bobbles in the two games.

Rich Mason was lauded for his afternoon's work in both games. Mason, as well as pitching a good game in the opener hit 2 for 3 and came through with a pinch hit single in the second game.

BOATING WITH BOWMAN

UNDERWATER DIVING EXPANDS BOAT-MAN'S HORIZON

By Hank Bowman

(Courtesy Sequoia Harbor) Skin and Scuba diving are as old as history. In 77 A.D. the Roman naturalist described an underwater diving tube which was the forerunner of our present snorkels.

Today an estimated 500,000 boating fans have extended their horizons by including sport diving to seek out natural beauty under the water, to hunt for sunken treasure, to engage in underwater fishing, photography and other submariner's hobbies.

Sport diving is divided into two categories. The skin diver uses the most basic equipment, a face mask, pair of swim fins and sometimes a snorkel.

This equipment can be bought for $15 to $30. With it the diver can float face down on the surface or venture to modest depths and explore shallow water areas.

The scuba diver, with self-contained underwater breathing apparatus that will cost $150 or more, can push well below the light dappled surface layers and explore to any depth to which his body can be safely adapted.

The sport diver may encounter under water hazards since the environment is unnatural to air-breathing man and certain underwater animal and plant life can be unfriendly. Yet a part of the thrill and the lure of diving is to explore the unknown and successfully meet the challenge of an incompatible environment. It is only safe if the person engaging in it does it with proper equipment, is adequately trained and recognizes safety precautions.

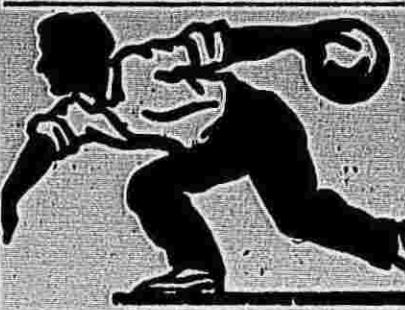

Veteran divers compare the energy expended in sports diving with that used in running. The man, woman or child who pants after walking up a flight of steps or feels pooped after a 25 yard swim better stay on the water's surface.

If you are attracted to skin or scuba, I advise you to join an active diving club whose members will recommend safe equipment. Nearly all clubs have qualified instructors who teach new members proper diving techniques, stress hazards that may be met, how to avoid them and what to do if they are encountered.

Your local marine dealer will be able to supply the names of the nearest diving clubs.

Don't resent growing old. A great many are denied the privilege. Sequoia seventh inning rally with his pinch double. The Sequoia led the bases in the final inning but failed to get the tying run across the plate.

LET'S GET DOWN TO BUSINESS—UNLESS YOU HAVE ANOTHER GOOD STORY.

Now that Winston Churchill is a brother American, even though there are mixed feelings about it, this would be a propitious moment to let fly with one of his most pungent remarks which was least publicized. Quote: "AN APPEASER IS ONE WHO FEEDS A CROCODILE—HOPING IT WILL EAT HIM LAST."

LET'S PICK ON NEWS-PAPERS DEPT.—Item in last Sunday's Tribune, datelined London, April 13th carried this headline: BAR MARCIERS FROM SECRET ATOM SHELTER. All right, I'll ask the silly question that invites the silly answer—If that atom shelter is so secret how come these marchers knew about it? Or to put it another way, what's the secret? Geez!

You don't have to be a cannibal to get fed up with people.

LET'S PICK ON THE NEWSPAPERS SOME MORE DEPT.—Headline on an item in the Daily News, Monday, April 15th, datelined Laurel, Miss. (Yah!) ANGLES CAN FIND BLUEGILLS BY ODOR. The article goes on to tell how these erudite (that means wisenheimer, girls) southern piscators locate the spawning beds of said bluegills with their nose. They claim that odors arise from the beds after they are spawned (the bluegills, that is) and that they (the southern erudite piscators) can pick up a scent from "hundreds of yards away." Hear!

Head! But when I read on and came to the line where the author said "the bluegill (Lepomis macrochirus—a member of the sunfish family) (the parentheses are mine) is the prince of the perch (Perca flavescens) family—the immediate conclusion was, the odor, if any, was emanating from the author. Holy Mackerel (Scomber scombrus).

The lady who dances with the invisible man doesn't know what she's up against.

NOW LET'S PICK ON THE EXPERTS DEPT.—In a conversation with some friends, the subject drifted to traveling, then to San Francisco and then to sea food, for which it is quite famous. Ole came up with a delicious dish he ate at Fisherman's Wharf, a sort of slumgullion made with turbot, which he thought might be some sort of shellfish. So wise guy me had to look it up for sure. First source of information naturally led to the National Geographic Book of Fishes. They listed the Queen Triggerfish as a turbot, with the tidbit that its flesh was reputed to be poisonous. So out came another book, American Wildlife Illustrated. It stated that said fish was a delicacy. Yipes! This time the dictionary was called upon, and it said the turbot was a large, European flatfish (flounder, girls) (Psetta maxima) highly esteemed as a food fish. Aw, c'mon fellows!

The difference between a taxidermist and a tax collector, and there is a subtle difference, is that the taxidermist takes only your skin.

This happened Sunday afternoon. Sitting in the living room, chewing the fat with friends, I happened to look out the window at the lake, and doggone if here ain't a light blue convertible, with four people in it, two hundred feet out in the lake, unconcerned as though they were Sunday driving on the highway. And when they got to the sand bar, which is baited shallow, I waited with baited breath for them to tear their bottom out. Instead, they rolled up and over and down the other side, on wheels, headed westward disappeared in the direction of Fox Lake. My friends saw it too. For an instant I thought it was that shot of elderberry wine I drank last month. . . . Investigation turned up the info that it was a new type amphibious vehicle—wheels, headlights, horn and all. Mama mia! What next?

The forsythias are in bloom and the world is getting green again. It's golf time!

What plans have YOU made for your golfing this season? If you love golf, if you would enjoy playing on one of America's finest courses with other good sportsmen, if you dislike waiting in line to get on a course, you should apply for one of the few remaining memberships in the George Diamond Country Club. This private club, a show-place of Mid-America, is adjacent to the George Diamond Charcoal Broiled Steak House that is open to the public all year round at Route 59 and Grass Lake Road in Antioch.

I've redesigned this 6,400-yard golf course to make it one of the sportiest in the nation. Strategically-placed sand traps, bunkers, water holes and dog legs offer a real challenge. The fairways are in fine shape and the greens are like velvet. Well-drained, the course is in condition to play immediately after a heavy rain.

Golf pros who have played the George Diamond Country Club course call it "championship calibre." A team from the Chicago Golf District Assn. had high praise and a high rating for the course.

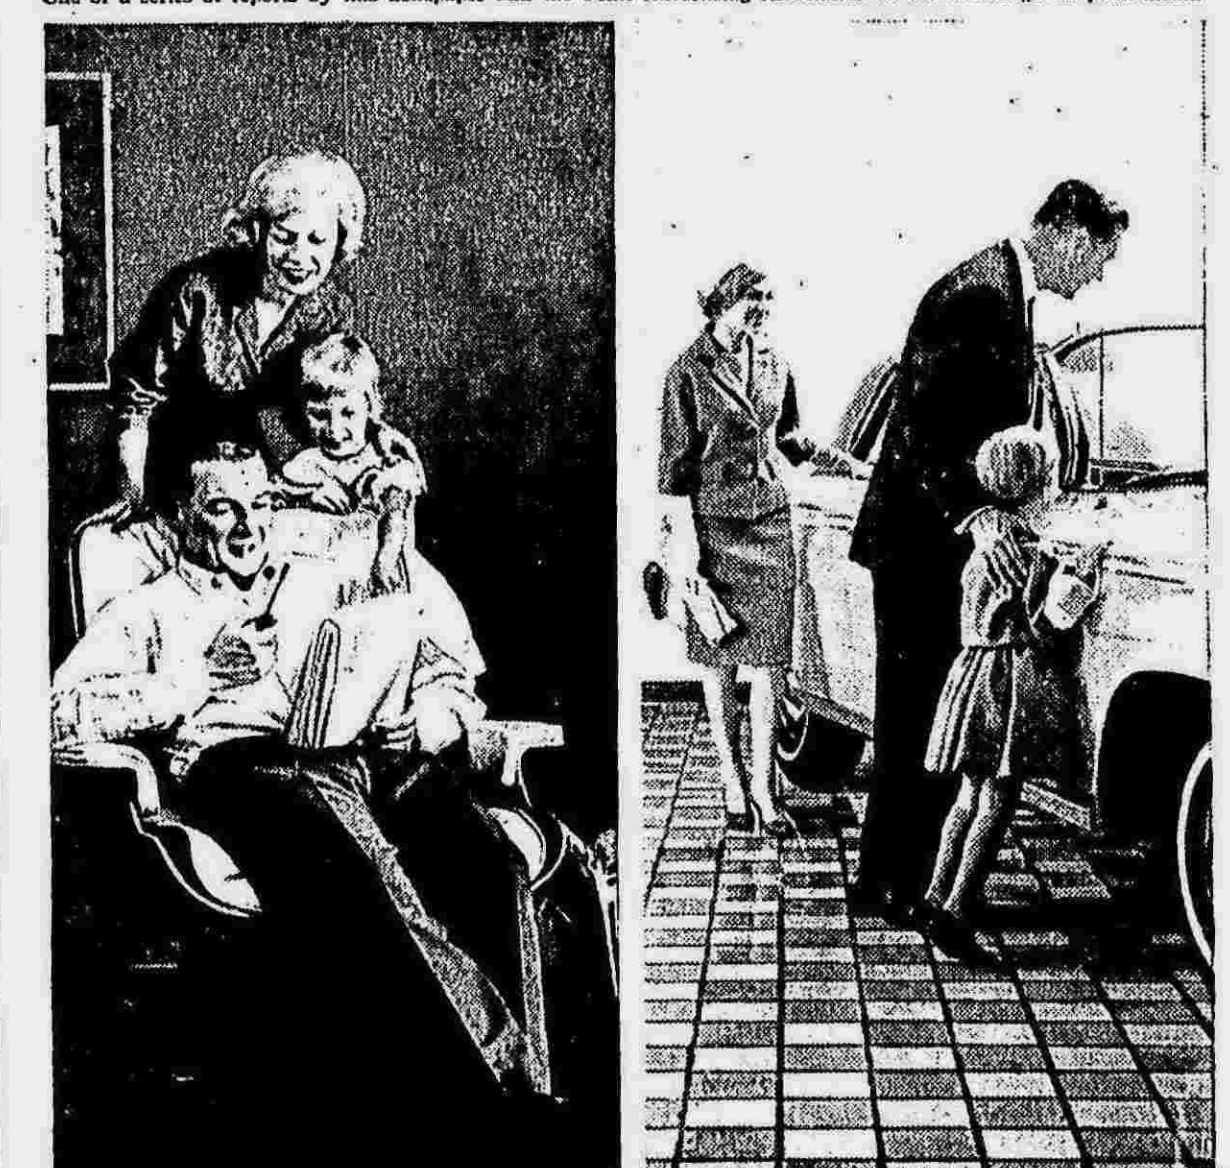

Comfortable locker rooms have a special feature . . . steam baths. After a full day of golf there is no greater luxury than a sauna bath. You get so full of vigor again you want to dance all night in the Go-Go Room that is part of the open-to-the-public George Diamond Charcoal Broiled Steak House. There is no minimum or cover charge in the Go-Go Room and we even absorb the excise tax.

Only a few country club memberships are available so act now. When 150 have joined I will close the membership because I know that golf is no fun when a course is overcrowded. Here's a run-down on what membership will cost you. A $200 initiation fee is payable only the first year. Annual dues are $300 a year, plus a nominal federal tax.

The next time you are in the George Diamond Charcoal Broiled Steak House for a mouth-watering dinner—the same No. 1 quality food served at 512 S. Wabash in Chicago and in our Palm Springs (Calif.) steak house—ask the hostess to give you a brochure with full details about the private country club . . . or call 395-0999.

(Watch for this column next week when Mr. Diamond, president of the George Diamond Charcoal Broiled Steak House that is open to the public, tells you about the "extras" that go with membership in the private George Diamond Country Club.)

One of a series of reports by this newspaper and the Print Advertising Association on the advantages of print media

Don't you read before you buy?

Most people do. They count on advertising in print to give them the information they want on products that interest them—information on features . . . designs . . . and prices, for example.

When you add it all up, print advertising—the kind you read in the pages of this newspaper—makes sense. And because it measures up to the buying habits of first consumers, print makes sales.

Most people read—and then buy. Don't you?

Ford Dealer Offers Use Of Car

Lyons & Ryan Ford Sales, Mr. L. A. Ryan and Mr. W. O. Lyons, 939 Main St., Antioch, Ill., have announced that their automobile dealership, a member of the Ford Dealers Association, is actively engaged in the "most extensive automobile promotion campaign ever undertaken in a major metropolitan market in the history of the auto industry."

The campaign is being staged by Ford Division of Ford Motor Company, assisted by the dealers association. Consisting of advertising and promotion activities, the "Big Change Program" is designed as an intensive five-month campaign which commenced April 1.

All Ford dealers in the 10-county Chicago area will take part in the multi-million dollar program, covering Lake, McHenry, Boone, DuPage, Kane, Cook, Kankakee, and Will counties in Illinois and Lake and Porter counties in Indiana.

The entire promotion is based upon Ford's "Big Change" theme, said the automobile dealers.

"During the month of April, any car owner in this community who wishes to use one of our hard-top cars for any 24 hours can, at the same time leave his own car here for a complete, free, service check. This is our Ford For-a-Day April Offering."

Next week is Student Council Week at ATHS. On Monday all students who are running for Student Council memberships or class officer positions will give campaign speeches at class assemblies, and students running for Executive Board positions on the council will give their speeches at an all school assembly. Monday will be a Dress-Up Day, too. All elections will be held Tuesday.

Wednesday will be Student Government Day. Seniors will replace teachers on this day. Student teachers are expected to meet with the teacher they are replacing to prepare the lessons for that day. Afterwards, teachers are asked to evaluate the job done by the student teachers and the value of having such a day.
